24th ANNUAL SYMPOSIUM

The twenty-fourth Annual Merrill Scott Symposium will focus on providing the most current information for delivering effective chemical dependency treatment. The symposium is dedicated to providing a high quality and meaningful educational experience. Topics for this year's program include: Recent developments in the field and how they impact the chemical dependency field, treating an aging population, counseling skills, legal issues and treatment of women with a history of trauma. The information presented is designed for chemical dependency counselors, agency directors and administrators, nurses, physicians, attorneys, law enforcement, and anyone who assists individuals in achieving quality recovery.
